BRINGS SUIT FOR SON BORN AFTER DIVORCE

Heiress Already Married to Co-respondent When Child Came Into World.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Victor D. Papineau, of Webster, has opened the most remarkable suit in the Massachusetts courts ever saw for the custody of a child, by asking that the Worcester Superior Court award to him a boy born to his wife a month after her marriage to her second husband, Curtis W. Emery.

Victor Papineau in 1906 eloped with Beatie Chase, of Webster, heiress to a great fortune. Mrs. Papineau divorced Papineau November 12, 1912. The divorce became absolute May 15, 1913.

She immediately married Curtis W. Emery, though the marriage was kept secret for a year.

On June 30, 1913, the boy whose future is now in doubt, was born. His birth certificate was filed in Medford. It gives his name as Frederick Chase Emery.

Chase was the most prominent girl in Webster. She was to inherit a large fortune and she was pretty and attractive.

In April, 1906, Papineau and the girl decided to be married against her parents' wishes. Dr. Louis F. Papineau, the young man's father, approved the match and assisted in plans for the wedding. Beatie Chase was at that time nineteen. Papineau was seventeen.

After the marriage there was a reconciliation, and Papineau and his bride returned to Webster.

Curtis W. Emery was a chum of Papineau and an associate in business. Papineau introduced Emery to his bride in 1910 or 1911.

In 1910 or 1911, Mrs. Papineau sued her husband for divorce. She named in her suit a girl named Mary, whom she claimed to be Beatie Papineau, a false name.

Emery, his chum, was named in the suit as the father of the child.

U. S. TO STUDY TRADE CONDITIONS ABROAD

Exhaustive Investigation to Be Made to Aid Federal Trades Commission.

An exhaustive investigation of industrial and business conditions in the principal foreign countries and the extent to which European manufacturers are competing with American concerns are aided by their governments, will be made soon by American consular and commercial representatives abroad, under instructions from the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

The inquiry will supplement a similar one undertaken by the Federal Trade Commission, and the information collected is planned to be used by the commission in working out a policy as to the attitude of the Government toward business organizations.

Special study will be made of the German cartel system, under which combinations of capital have been fostered. American manufacturers have argued that they should be allowed to form combinations for economy and efficiency in the export trade, an action which they considered of doubtful legality under the Sherman act unless specific legislative sanction were given.

The chief aim of the investigations just instituted, officials said, will be to aid American exporters in extending their foreign trade.

KAISER WEEPS AT "DOOM OF FRANCE"

Tells Socialist Leader He Had Overestimated Gallic Chivalry.

BERLIN, via London, Sept. 12 (by mail).—Herr Anton Friedrich, well known among German Socialists, describes in an article published in the Frankfurter Zeitung a conversation which he had with the Kaiser in the field. The main point revealed by Herr Friedrich is the declaration that the Kaiser is certain that France is doomed. The writer in this connection says:

"Nobody will suppose that the opinions of the Kaiser agree in all points with those of a man of the left, but in two cases there was perfect accord between us. The first was when the conversation turned upon the French."

The Kaiser speaks quite pure French and had hoped, like all of us, and especially us people from Baden, that France first of all an agreement would be possible. 'We had previously overestimated the Gallic nation as well as all other nations. We had thought of them as people passing through their decadence. Their conduct of war is full of the most grievous horrors, full of cruelty. We are told that only a private book of the war will ever be able to record them."

"Half an hour the Kaiser—with reluctance, but carried away by the horror of it all—narrated to me sworn facts about the behavior of French officers and soldiers toward the enemy, but toward their own people. France is a doomed country. The tears which more than once came into the Kaiser's eyes as he told the tale were often tears of shame at such degradation in a people that had been thought to be still chivalrous and noble."

"The second happy point of agreement between the Kaiser and me showed itself when we talked about the meaning of the war. The meaning and purpose is the unification and purification of Europe. The war may have over the world historic task of being the heart of Europe and of preparing the way for the spiritualization of European humanity. We are not all good, but we have the will to be good, and those who are sincere are permitted by God to succeed. The war is a divine idea about the meaning of the war. An inner fire illuminated the conversation and it was as if outside the garden from the voices of young men singing. 'Oh, Germany, high in honor, thou sacred land of loyalty!'"

EMPTY COAL BINS KEEP MINERS IDLE

Decrease of 2,500,000 Tons in Output for the Year—Winter Supplies Unbought.

The mine output of anthracite coal during the first nine months of 1915 was 2,500,000 tons less than for the similar period in 1914, according to figures made public today. The shortage for September alone will probably be half a million tons.

In spite of this condition local coal dealers do not expect a rise in prices. One local dealer said that a decreased demand was to a large extent responsible for the decreased output, and that, owing largely to unsettled conditions, many persons had not followed their usual practice of buying their winter coal in midsummer.

Coal is quoted today at $7.50 a ton; white ash stove coal at $1.50, and chestnut coal at $7.50, with 15 cents a ton off for cash. Many coal dealers expect a rise in prices after January 1, as the three-year agreement between the miners and mine owners, in both anthracite and bituminous regions, expires April 1, and labor troubles are not improbable.

Champagne Charge Led by Americans

Two Wounded in the Attack—Foreign Legion Wins German Trenches and Forest.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—D. W. Thorin, of Canton, S. D., has received a letter from Kiffin Rockwell, an American in the French Foreign Legion, dated "Red Cross Train, Oct. 1."

"Am wounded in the attack (in Champagne) we made on September 23," writes Rockwell. "I got hit in the back and head, not seriously, though. I don't know how the rest of the bunch fared except Trunkard, whom I met with a couple of bullets in the left shoulder. But he seemed quite cheerful."

"We got all the Battalion's machine guns and a couple of the German machine guns. It was a fine death trap for the attack. All the boys stuck to it and carried the booze trenches and the forest where the Germans had a strong position. I tell you those booze got away quick and lively."

Bachelor Marries Widow With Eighteen Children

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 4.—When George Washington Henry, fifty-five years old, and a blacksmith, took as his bride Mrs. Henriette Vermorel, a widow of sixty-four, he made one bound from bachelorhood to the head of a family of eighteen children and thirteen grandchildren.

After the wedding he and Mrs. Henry had a reception, at which he was introduced to his newly acquired flock. He met his wife at her station in Gloucester a year ago, and not even the thought of her eighteen children prevented him from calling again and again. They got a license and were married by Mayor Anderson, of Gloucester. The reception was held at the home of Mrs. C. G. Gray, one of Mrs. Henry's daughters.

Mr. Davis is here, en route across the continent to San Francisco to attend the convention there of the American Federation of Labor. With Mrs. Davis, he took in the G. A. R. encampment, and has, he stated today, been interviewing prominent Washingtonians interested in the hotel "De Gink" idea, with a view to establishing such a hostelry here.

Mr. Davis is looking about for a suitable building. Like the New York institution, the hotel here will be entirely self supporting and operated by hobo attendants. All that is necessary
